Architect's note:

Architecturally, the project was approached with absolute respect to the nature, the morphology of the ground and the microclimate of the wider area.

As for the materials, they are fully harmonized with the surroundings. Materials such as stone and wood, are used frequently in the traditional architecture in the villages around and the whole island.

Details of the houses refer to a purely traditional design, while adopting the needs of the modern sustainable habitation of an autonomous house.

The beauty of simplicity is obvious throughout the whole project, giving the image of tradition and functionality that the experience of so many years of traditional architecture has so generously given us.

Residents will experience daily the beauty of the environment, nature and the harmonious integration of the houses in the area.
